ROBOTS RULE

Insect brooches

- GLUE
- black and white felt
- fork
- scissors
- red yarn
- black yarn
- sew-on-brooch needle

1. Wrap red yarn around a fork (approx. 30x)

2. Wrap black yarn around the two inner prongs of the fork (approx. 10x) and thread a needle at the end of the black yarn.

3. Pierce with the needle through the middle of the two inner fork prongs and pull the red yarn together. Sew up the red yarn at the back.

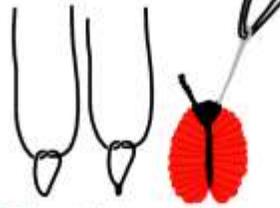

4. Make a few stitches in the middle of the red coiled yarn - make sure you stay between the two inner fork prongs.

5. Make a few stitches from between the prongs to the top of the black coiled yarn to fix it. Sew up the black yarn.

6. Carefully remove the ladybug from the fork, gently pluck it a bit into shape.

7. Take a little piece of black yarn (approx. 8") and make one knot in the middle of the thread. Repeat and make a total of 8 knots on top of each other. Sew feeler to one side of the ladybug's head, sew up the threads. Repeat this step also for the second feeler.

8. Make the dots of knot-stiches (see "the basics") - you can also use little black beads instead. Sew a brooch needle to the back of your ladybug.

9. Cut little circles of white and black felt and glue them to the head as eyes

In this way you can do various other bugs: change the colour of the yarn, make them legs, the same way you did with the feelers, make them giant-eyes, end the feelers with little beads...
